“This series is a tremendous resource for those wanting to study and teach the Bible with an understanding of how the gospel is woven throughout Scripture. Here are gospel-minded pastors and scholars doing gospel business from all the Scriptures. This is a biblical and theological feast preparing God’s people to apply the entire Bible to all of life with heart and mind wholly committed to Christ’s priorities.”

BRYAN CHAPELL, Chancellor, Covenant Theological Seminary

“Mark Twain may have smiled when he wrote to a friend, ‘I didn’t have time to write you a short letter, so I wrote you a long letter.’ But the truth of Twain’s remark remains serious and universal, because well-reasoned, compact writing requires extra time and extra hard work. And this is what we have in the Crossway Bible study series Knowing the Bible. The skilled authors and notable editors provide the contours of each book of the Bible as well as the grand theological themes that bind them together as one Book. Here, in a 12-week format, are carefully wrought studies that will ignite the mind and the heart.”

R. KENT HUGHES, Senior Pastor Emeritus, College Church, Wheaton, Illinois

“Knowing the Bible brings together a gifted team of Bible teachers to produce a high-quality series of study guides. The coordinated focus of these materials is unique: biblical content, provocative questions, systematic theology, practical application, and the gospel story of God’s grace presented all the way through Scripture.”

PHILIP G. RYKEN, President, Wheaton College

“These Knowing the Bible volumes provide a significant and very welcome variation on the general run of inductive Bible studies. This series provides substantial instruction, as well as teaching through the very questions that are asked. Knowing the Bible then goes even further by showing how any given text links with the gospel, the whole Bible, and the formation of theology. I heartily endorse this orientation of individual books to the whole Bible and the gospel, and I applaud the demonstration that sound theology was not something invented later by Christians, but is right there in the pages of Scripture.”

GRAEME L. GOLDSWORTHY, former lecturer, Moore Theological College; author, According to Plan, Gospel and Kingdom, The Gospel in Revelation, and Gospel and Wisdom

“What a gift to earnest, Bible-loving, Bible-searching believers! The organization and structure of the Bible study format presented through the Knowing the Bible series is so well conceived. Students of the Word are led to understand the content of passages through perceptive, guided questions, and they are given rich insights and application all along the way in the brief but illuminating sections that conclude each study. What potential growth in depth and breadth of understanding these studies offer! One can only pray that vast numbers of believers will discover more of God and the beauty of his Word through these rich studies.”

KNOWING THE BIBLE, as the series title indicates, was created to help readers know and understand the meaning, the message, and the God of the Bible. Each volume in the series consists of 12 units that progressively take the reader through a clear, concise study of that book of the Bible. In this way, any given volume can fruitfully be used in a 12-week format either in group study, such as in a church-based context, or in individual study. Of course, these 12 studies could be completed in fewer or more than 12 weeks, as convenient, depending on the context in which they are used.

Each study unit gives an overview of the text at hand before digging into it with a series of questions for reflection or discussion. The unit then concludes by highlighting the gospel of grace in each passage (“Gospel Glimpses”), identifying whole-Bible themes that occur in the passage (“Whole-Bible Connections”), and pinpointing Christian doctrines that are affirmed in the passage (“Theological Soundings”).

The final component to each unit is a section for reflecting on personal and practical implications from the passage at hand. The layout provides space for recording responses to the questions proposed, and we think readers need to do this to get the full benefit of the exercise. The series also includes definitions of key words. These definitions are indicated by a note number in the text and are found at the end of each chapter.

Lastly, for help in understanding the Bible in this deeper way, we would urge the reader to use the ESV Bible and the ESV Study Bible, which are available online at www.esvbible.org. The Knowing the Bible series is also available online. Additional 12-week studies covering each book of the Bible will be added as they become available.

May the Lord greatly bless your study as you seek to know him through knowing his Word.

Week 1: Overview

Getting Acquainted

Paul’s letter to the Galatians presents a paradox: how can something so severe bring so much delight? Here is a letter that attacks and assaul ts its original readers—and all of us who attempt to prove our worth to God and others: “O foolish Galatians!” Paul writes (3:1). And yet we have here a letter capable of bringing inexpressible joy and peace and freedom, as those who truly hear Paul’s passionate message find themselves basking in the light of the grace of God found in Christ Jesus.

Galatians sounds a clear call to the doctrine of justification¹ by faith alone. It teaches that Jesus, and only Jesus, provides the way for us to be accepted by God and fully a member of his family. We are righteous through his righteousness. Any addition to Jesus as the basis for our standing before God is ultimately a deadly subtraction; to say we need more than Jesus to be justified before God is to lose everything.

Beyond proclaiming to us the way we become members of God’s family, Galatians also provides guidance for how we can experience the ongoing freedom of being his children, the freedom that Christ has won for us. Even as Christianity must begin by faith in Jesus, so also must it continue in the same manner. Avoiding the dangers of slavery to either religion or irreligion, a Spirit-led trust in Jesus enables the believer to discover the joyful freedom of serving others in love.
At the heart of Galatians are the glorious words, “no longer I . . . but Christ.” Joined to Christ by faith, the believer has been crucified with him: the previous self, with its ties to this evil age and its vain attempts at independence, is no more. Now believers live by faith in Christ, empowered by his resurrection life, filled with hope because of their newfound status as sons of God, heirs of his extravagant promises, members of his unimaginably great new creation.2 (For further background, see the ESV Study Bible, pages 2241–2244, or visit www.esvbible.org.)

Placing It in the Larger Story

Though Galatians is (rightly) understood as an epistle that proclaims the doctrine of justification by faith alone in Christ alone, a careful study of this letter must recognize the redemptive-historical context3 in which it was written. During the centuries years leading up to the coming of Christ, God’s people believed that the only way to experience God’s saving blessings was by becoming a part of ethnic Israel and placing oneself under the law of Moses. This understanding was upended when Peter was sent by God to proclaim the gospel to Cornelius, a Roman centurion (Acts 10). Ten years later, when Paul writes this letter, there remains a significant amount of confusion regarding how a person enters the family of God. What is required to become an heir to the promises of blessing that God made to Abraham? What place do Gentiles have in God’s redemptive plan for humanity? These questions lie near the center of the controversy addressed in Galatians.

Key Verse

“I have been crucified with Christ. It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me” (Gal. 2:20).

Date and Historical Background

The absence of any references to the Jerusalem council4—certainly an event that would have been highly relevant to the subject matter of this letter—suggests that Paul wrote Galatians sometime after his first missionary journey and before the meeting of that council. Thus AD 48 is a likely date for its composition.

Paul had a personal relationship with the Galatian Christians. He visited the cities in the Galatian region while experiencing physical weakness. As some of its residents cared for him, he proclaimed to them the gospel of God’s salvation of all peoples through Jesus (4:13–16). Those who believed were filled with joy and experienced miraculous manifestations of the Holy Spirit (3:2–5; 4:15). This resulted in churches being established throughout the region.

Following Paul’s subsequent departure, other teachers have arisen who have brought considerable confusion. Motivated in part by a desire to win the favor of Jewish leaders and avoid being persecuted by them (6:12–13), these teachers have sought to persuade the Galatian Christians that individuals are not full members of God’s people until they join the Jews in observing the requirements of the Old Testament law (referred to in Galatians as “works of the law”). The Galatians have responded to this teaching by beginning to observe Jewish feast days (4:10) and are considering becoming circumcised (5:2). Paul is deeply concerned that these young believers are beginning to believe a different (and thus, false) gospel. He writes this passionate letter to persuade them that they must resist the influence of these teachers and return to their previous way of faith.

What aspects of the book of Galatians have confused you? Are there any specific questions that you hope to have answered through this study?

One of the challenges in applying Galatians to our context is that few of us seek to demonstrate our worth before God and others by placing ourselves under the Jewish law. As you prepare to consider this letter, list some modern-day examples of ways that people seek to demonstrate their self-worth apart from Christ.

As You Finish This Unit . . .

Take a few minutes to ask God to bless you with increased understanding and a transformed heart and life as you begin this study of Galatians.

Definitions

1. Justification – The act of God’s grace in bringing sinners into a new covenant relationship with himself and counting them as righteous before him through the forgiveness of sins.

2. New creation – The world to come (Heb. 2:5) that stands in contrast with this “present evil age” (see Gal. 1:4; 6:15). From the moment humanity alienated itself from God, this present world in all its facets has been corrupted by sin. Christ’s resurrection marks the dawn of a new world, a new creation, in which everything is as it was created to be. Through union with Christ by the Spirit, believers are a first part of this new creation (2 Cor. 5:17), and when Christ returns to judge and complete his redeeming work, the entire world will experience its transformation into this new creation.

3. Redemptive-historical context – The location something has within the larger story of God’s work of salvation in this world.

4. Jerusalem council – The gathering of apostles and church leaders in Jerusalem for the purpose of determining what relationship Gentile converts should have to the law of Moses (see Acts 15).
