SUGGESTED INTERVIEW QUESTIONS
for Family Discipleship

1. What is family discipleship, and why is it so important?

2. A common reason people give for not doing family discipleship is that it’s too difficult. How would you encourage someone who feels this way?

3. What would you say to someone who thinks that bringing their children to church is the primary way to disciple them?

4. Why is it so important for Christians to be raising “righteously abnormal” kids who are different from the culture around them?

5. What role does a parent’s example play in the discipleship of their children?

6. In your book you talk about time, moments, and milestones. Can you briefly explain what each of these are and why they’re important to family discipleship?

7. How might intentional family discipleship times change as your children grow?

8. How do you leverage discipleship moments in your own parenting?

9. What are some examples of milestones a family might commemorate, and how can they be leveraged for family discipleship?

10. How can pastors equip families in their churches to disciple their children?
